

PoleTrack®

Manage your field assets effectively

Manage

- Utility poles
- Underground facilities
- AMR meter change-outs
- Joint use contracts, permits & attachments
- Streetlights
- Transformer loading
- Test & treatment
- Inspections of all types
- Vegetation

Recover lost joint use $

- Unpermitted attachments
- Costs for work done on CATV/telecom attachments
- Costs caused by attacher NESC violations
- Recover your PoleTrack investment within a year

Does your utility have these problems?

- Pole & underground data scattered across databases & spreadsheets
- Increasing joint use attachments
- Difficulty following up on inspections
- Problems coordinating with pole attachers or owners
- Increasing inspection regulations
- Retiring workers

Integrated system

Utilities often receive spreadsheets, small databases or shape files from field inspectors. Importing data into the utility's systems and following up on the findings can be difficult. PoleTrack's one-touch, automated synchronization with your mobile computers means:

- Inspection data is immediately available
- Inspectors follow your standards
- Inspectors immediately see asset updates
- Easy to update to evolving standards

PoleTrack comes with an XML / web services integration module that enables PoleTrack to easily interface with your other systems:

- GIS
- Work management
- Finance
- NJUNS (also developed by Accent)

From utilities using PoleTrack:

"We increased our joint use attachment revenue by over $100,000 per year after we implemented PoleTrack and got everything working."

"Now we run quick reports to prove to the Public Services Commission that we're doing safety inspections and making corrections. That used to be a real problem."

"A utility our size should have three or four people managing joint use. PoleTrack is the only reason I can handle it by myself, with just a part-time intern helping."

"The Accent guys really understand our industry. They listen and work with us."

From an independent inspection company using PoleTrack:

"PoleTrack never crashes and loses our data like the old software did. It makes it a lot easier to work with the utility because the upload and download is all automatic."
